

Wellen Park and Habitat for Humanity South Sarasota County Partner
Bringing Joy to Habitat Children through "Cottages for Kids"

Wellen Park, a prominent community development in Sarasota County, is once again partnering with Habitat for Humanity South Sarasota County. This collaboration aims to create a positive impact on the local community by constructing 'Cottages for Kids,' a project dedicated to assisting Habitat in its mission of providing safe and secure homes for families in need.

Local builders joined hands with Wellen Park and Habitat to bring this vision to life. These 'Cottages for Kids' are designed with the well-being of children in mind. The initiative aligns with Wellen Park's commitment to fostering community development and contributing to the betterment of the Sarasota area.

As part of this partnership, a donor reception was held on December 8 at Solis Hall. Guests were treated to live music by DiscoFox and delicious refreshments provided by Banyan House.

To further support Habitats Mission, a live auction was led by auctioneer Ray Sherman of West Coast Auction, with all proceeds directed towards funding future Habitat for Humanity projects in South Sarasota County. An impressive $37,000 was raised during this unique live auction experience.

One of the most distinctive aspects of this partnership is the donation of the 'Cottages for Kids' to Habitat for Humanity South Sarasota County homeowners. The homes will be handed over to deserving families, bringing joy and stability to those who may have faced housing challenges in the past.

This partnership represents a significant step towards addressing the housing needs of families in South Sarasota County and underscores the power of community collaboration.
